Hotii ts'eeda launches 2024 call for proposals for NWT health and wellness projects

Yellowknife (1 February 2024) - Hotii ts'eeda is pleased to announce that its 2024 call for proposals is now open until March 11, 2024.

This opportunity is offered to NWT community initiatives, projects, and research that address locally-identified health and wellness needs. Funding is offered in increments of $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, and $15,000. In addition to funding, Hotii ts'eeda offers regular support to partner projects throughout the year – such as communications supports, knowledge translation services, training opportunities, and educational resources.

Hotii ts'eeda's application process is simple and accessible. Interested people and projects are asked to complete a proposal outlining their project, timeline, and needs. This can be done over email, over the phone or in-person, in order to reduce barriers for community-driven projects.

Hotii ts'eeda is a federally-funded organization that exists to support Indigenous health and wellness in the NWT. Hotii ts'eeda is a Tłıchǫ phrase that translates to “working together for good health”. Embedded within the Tłıchǫ Government, Hotii ts'eeda advocates for the inclusion of land, language, culture, and way of life within all aspects of the health research system.
